Councillor Armstrong partners with the university to recruit local businesses onto the universities job service. He conducted a mixture cold-calling in Lancaster City centre telephone calls from campus at Lancaster University.

Sam has been working with representatives from the employment and recruitment service at Lancaster University going round signing businesses up to the universities re-launched job service and inviting them up to the jobs fair held in October. After successfully recruiting companies such as Boots, Sainsbury's and Next; Sam worked with staff at the university calling up local organisations and inviting them to the jobs fair. He said 'It is great to hear so many employers are interested in the universities' job service for the first time. This will allow students in my ward easier access to part time jobs and will enable local businesses to recruit easier.'

WELCOMED REFUGEES

Cllr Armstrong seconded a motion in full council that welcomed Syrian refugees into the Lancaster district in recent light of the humanitarian crisis in North Africa. The motion was proposed by councillor Novell and passed at full council in September with cross party support.

ANY LOCAL ISSUES

Cllr Armstrong has been round to residents in Bailrigg and houses west of the A6. He went around investigating any local issues and provided contact details in case any problems occur in the future.

He has set time to visit the rest of the rural residents in the near future, in order to continue his work of communication for which he regards as important for political representation at a local level.

Cllr Armstrong raised concerns with Authorities over dangerous junction in Bailrigg

Sam has raised serious concern to authorities in regards to the cycle path junction at Bailrigg road due to the risk of collision between cyclists, pedestrians and moving traffic.

Sam contacted the county council and university and is in close contact with those responsible with the progress of the development.
